Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large codar reservoir containing five hundred barrels, brought from a never-failing apring of pure cold water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram," a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping willows. In the first story of the water-works is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a height of about thirty feet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an inch and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressing room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douche (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, being entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other appliances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

PICTORIAL HISTORY OF CHINA AND INDIA; with a descriptive account of those countries and their inhabitants, from the earliest period of authentic history to the present time. In which the editor has treated not only of the historical events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

The embellishments are about two hundred, and of the first order, illustrating whatever is peculiar to the inhabitants, regarding their dress, domestic occupations, their mode of agriculture, commercial pursuits, arts, &c. They are accurate, and each one has been made expressly for the work.

THRILLING INCIDENTS OF THE WARS OF THE UNITED STATES;

comprising the most striking and remarkable events of the Revolution, the French war, the Tripolitan war, the Indian war, the second war with Great Britain, and the Mexican war; with three hundred engravings! Retail price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

SEARS PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the demestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

Our Plan.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, owns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sanding $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

Enterprising and active men of respectability and good address, would do well to engage in the sale of the above volumes; and all postmasters, clergymen, book pedlars, and newspaper agents, are respectfully requested to act as our agents. A handsome remuneration allowed to all who engage in their sale. For particulars address, post paid,

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

For the American Telegraph. My Log-Cabin Home. BY JOEL AUSTIN.

AIR—" The Wizard Wallee."

My log cabin's still neath the walnut-tree shade In the same sunny vale where in boyhood I played, And the clear river winds, as of old, to the fall, And the smoke curls away from the rude chimney-top, And the smoke curis away from the lade change, and the rosy-cheeked apples seem ready to drop:
I would give the world's wealth—yes! I'd give it twice o'w For the love of my Kate, in that cot by the shore!

II.

How pleasant 'twould be, at the heat of the day, Through the glade and the vine-covered woodland to stray,
To tell of fair countries and faces I'd seen—
But still that home-ties ever stronger had been!
To point out the brook, and the minnows there too, In the same rocky nook that in childhood we knew; And the shoal-place I gathered the pebbles, to give To the maid I would cherish as long as I live!

And it has not the charm of my own native grove-For when my heart's worn with its trials and care, I would fly to my home-and they cannot come there Then fondly, POTOMAC, I welcome your wave, And the dense, trackless woods of the borders you lave; I will dwell mid the scenes first to meet my young eye
And would look my last look on your shores as I die! WASHINGTON, May, 1851.

Kossuth in America. We have warmly seconded the sympathy in favor of Kossuth, as well as the idea of extending to him such a reception as his services in the cause of freedom, his eloquence, and his exalted personal character, entitle him to. We do not doubt that such a reception will be extended to him; nor do we doubt that it will be aided by all classes of our countrymen, notwithstanding the efforts making to render it ineffective. The sentiment that welcomes Kossuth is no sectional sentiment. It is all-pervading and universal, and will be elicited and aroused wherever the occasion shall demand it. We cannot doubt that the release of the Hungarian hero by the Mohammedan authorities will be followed by the release of Mea-gher, O'Brien, Mitchell, and the other Irish exiles, on the part of the British authorities; and we are stimulated in this belief and in this hope by the formal and favorable manner in which Kossuth has been greeted in Englanda confession, as that greeting is, of the injustice of the English policy as exhibited against the Irish patriots, and, let us trust, a promise of the speedy deliverance of those brave, intelligent, and persecuted men. It seems, indeed, as if the release of Kossuth by the Turk had been wished for by the Englishmen, in order that the latter might have an excuse for giving freedom to the eloquent and chivalric Irish-men. But whatever the motive may be in regard to Kossuth, the same feeling displayed in his favor must operate to secure the liber-ty of the expatriated patriqts now confined in the inhospitable colonies of Great Britain. This, then, being the course in England, what course is left for us? Clearly, to welcome the Irish as we have welcomed the Hungarian ex-

The correspondent in question does not, we suspect, understand his subject. Writing in haste, and without sufficient thought, he forgets that an edifice intended to remain for generations will be all the better for being built slowly: or if he has not overlooked this fact. but is ignorant of it, any competent bricklayer or stone-mason could inform him it is so. more solid, in fact, a structure is to be, the longer should be the period occupied in its erection; for this gives time for the building to settle-all edifices settling more or less, and the heavier ones the most. Public buildings in the Old World are never hurried up. Archi tects there understand their business too well to allow of this. It would seem, also, as if the Gothic cathedrals (which still remain, after the lapse of centuries, as firm as when first erected) were raised even more slowly than modern churches or other public edifices; and that their durability is to be attributed, in part, to in this respect, wiser than we. Old houses are not only more solidly erected than modern ones, but they were evidently constructed with less haste. They were not run up in a day. In the effort to have cheap dwellings, we have passed the line of true economy; and the result is mere shells of houses that scarcely keep out the rain, and that, after a few years, will be unfit to inhabit. Large portions of all the American cities will have to be rebuilt, in another generation, at the sacrifice of the entire capital invested in the present edifices. building with such haste we are "penny wise and pound foolish." The following well-told story, by J. P. Mor-ris, was published several years since, but it is so apposite to the times that we now lay it be-fore our readers. We hope business men will profit by the moral it conveys:

RAGE OF THE AUSTRIANS AGAINST ENGLAND AND AMERICA. - A letter dated Venice, Sept. 29, referring to the release of Kossuth, and his embarkation for the United States, says: "The Austrians in Venice are very bitter against the English and Americans for this esca pade. As one demonstration of petty malice on that account, Gorskowski, the military governor, notified all foreign consuls, on the 27th, that under a decree of the 20th, he was resolved vigorously to excute all the laws pertaining to a state of siege; and that all travellers and visiters. who didn't conform in custom, costumes, conversation, and conduct, to those requisitions, however odious, would, without exception, be The decree is evidently aimed at put in arrest. VICTIMS OF THE NEAPOLITAN CONSTITUTION. It is stated in the official reply of the Neapolitan government to Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet, that the number of political prisoners did not exceed 2,024. This is declared by the Neapolitan correspondent of the Daily News to be "a positive fraud," and he supplies the deficiency from the police registers, giving the number of political prisoners from May, 1848, to the present time: Condemned to the Ergastoto, 36; condemned in irons to the Bagni, 1,000; condemned in irons to the Bagni, but not yet removed from prison, 300; banished to the islands after trial, 800; banished to the islands without trial, including the soldiers sent by royal authority to the Camp of Charles Albert, 5,000; accused, who have been or still are in prison from May, 1848, to September, 1851. not included in the foregoing, 15,000; supposed number of exiles, 3,000; hiding from police, 150; exiled from their native towns, but still in the kingdom, 350. "It is ascertained beyond doubt that Mr. Crampton, the British Charge d'Affaires ad interim, has presented to the Government de-spatches in which it is stated that the French and English governments have issued orders, in case of the sailing of any more expeditions against Cuba, to search all vessels of a suspicious character, whether sailing under United States or other colors."

Ladies' Dresses.—The Paris correspondent of the Boston Atlas states that the fashionable dress-makers are attempting the revival of the hideous fashions of the empire—short waists, narrow petticoats, and long dresses; the coiffure to be a la Grecque, and cameos to be worn instead of diamonds. In a word, David's celebrated painting of the Coronation of Napoleon is the place from which we shall obtain all our winter fashions.—Phil. City Item.

It is very ridiculous, to be sure; but if the eastern winds bring us such things, we must, of course, adopt them!

Major Heiss .- The New Orleans Crescent, of the 25th ult., says:

"Major Heiss, recently of the Washington Union, has arrived in our city, and assumed his duties as associate editor and proprietor of the New Orleans Delta. He is a gentleman of energy, talent, and means, and will, doubtless, be valuable acquisition to the establishment. We are happy to note his accession to the press

THE PROPOSED PLANK ROAD TO THE DISTRICT LINE.—At the adjourned meeting of stockholders, on Friday afternoon, at Temperance Hall, several propositions were adopted unanimously, tending to show that these gentlemen are in ear-nest, and are resolved on making an early comnest, and are resolved on making an early com-mencement of the work. Among other proceed-ings, the agent, Mr. Chubb, was "instructed to invite, by advertisement, proposals for the con-struction of the whole or any part of the road on the Washington and Rockville turnpike to the District line"—a distance of six miles. There are gentlemen ready to undertake the furnishing of sleepers, plank, etc., and to grade a portion of the road, to be paid for in stock; and it is pro-posed that the money subscribed be expended where such obligations cannot be secured.

The distance has already been surveyed by Mr. Randolph Coyle.—Republic.

SOUTHERN PLANTERS' CONVENTION. - This body met at Macon, Ga., on the 28th ult., and organized by electing ex-Governor Moseley, of Florida, President, and thirteen Vice Presidents, among whom was R. S. Archer, of Virginia, The Convention was very largely attended, the object being to devise some plan to render the cotton planters of the South more independent of the vicissitudes of trade, and to secure for them more uniform prices for their great staple. The final action of the convention will be looked for with some interest.

THE NEXT SPEAKER .- The contest for Speaker to Congress is likely to settle down between Col. Boyd, of Kentucky, and Mr. Disney, of Ohio. As the Southern States have had the Speaker thirty-nine years, and the Northern only twenty-three, the friends of Mr. Disney will present his claims in very strong light. He has had much experience as a presiding officer, and would fill the chair with ability and credit. Col. Boyd is an old member of great experience and bigh reputation. Mr. Burt, of South Carolina, would inquestionably make the best presiding officer, but his secession notions will defeat his election.

AMUSEMENTS IN PARIS .- During the month of August, the recepts of the chief places of public amusement in Paris amounted to $138,000. This sum is increased during the fall and winter months.
